Capital Markets Commentary (as of June 30, 2021)

Capital Markets Overview

Equity markets were again positive in Q2 2021, with the fifth consecutive quarter of gains. This winning streak is now better than the previous record set of four quarters strung together in 1995. An acceleration in vaccine distribution and easing COVID-19 restrictions led to improved economic and corporate earnings growth data. Accommodative monetary policy and the prospect of additional fiscal spending also supported the growth outlook.

Domestic Equity Markets

The S&P 500 finished the second quarter posting an 8.6% return. The leading sectors were Real Estate, Technology, and Energy posting returns of 13.1%, 11.6%, and 11.3%, respectively. Utilities was the lone sector to post a loss on the quarter with -0.4% return. For the quarter, the Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 5.1% and the NASDAQ returned 9.7%.

International Equity Markets

International equities underperformed the U.S. predominately due to losses within Japanese markets. Developed international markets, as measured by the MSCI EAFE index, increased 5.4% for U.S. currency investors. The MSCI Europe index advanced 7.7% on continued success of vaccine rollouts. Japanese equities underperformed with a -0.3% return as measures to contain the COVID pandemic have struggled as of late. Emerging Markets indices, as measured by the MSCI Emerging Markets index, posted a 5.1% return.

Fixed Income Markets

Bond markets were positive for a second quarter. The Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond index gained 1.8% over the period after falling 3.4% last quarter. The yield on the 10-year Treasury came down slightly in Q2 to close the quarter at 1.5%. Riskier parts of the bond market, buoyed by the market's risk-on sentiment, saw strong gains with the Bloomberg Barclays High Yield index advancing 2.7%.
